

Xpert Xplorer

From the car park in Ladywell Park (off Bruce Street) take the path to your left by the war memorial and cross the Road at Quakerfield. Follow the shops along Main Street and down the Old Brae, crossing the Bannockburn at the Spittal's Bridge. Here you have two options:

1. Turn right along the path towards the wooden steps. Climb the steps and then cross the New Road at the Pedestrian Crossing. Turn left, following the railings of the Ladywell Park to the corner and then enter the park via the main entrance. Follow the path to the bottom and then head towards Telford's Bridge with its circular arch. At the interpretation board, turn left and walk along to the small bridge. Cross it and climb the modern steps up the steep bank until you reach the top part of Ladywell Park. Follow any of the paths back to the car park where you started.
2. Turn left and follow the path (either cross the wooden bridge or not, it doesn't matter) until you come to the Falls of Bannockburn. Cross the bridge and follow the path almost to its junction with the main road. A few metres before Colliers Way, turn right (almost doubling back on yourself) until you come to Milton Ford. Cross the Ford and continue along the path until you come to the houses at the foot of Coal Wynd. Continue up and over Coal Wynd until you come to the junction with the Old Brae. Turn right, back along Main Street until you come to the junction with Quakerfield. Cross the road and continue on down the path at the side of the War Memorial until you arrive back in the car park where you started.
